DIY Manual

This manual shows how our chapter see the future development of Internet in Armenia.

ISOC Armenia Chapter as a part of the Armenian civil society organizations (CSOs) network plays a great role in helping vulnerable groups of population by tending their needs, supplying equipment, and providing various support services during the COVID-19 pandemic. One of our continuous programs is helping rural libraries with digitization, Internet connection and provision of WiFi access to Internet for library visitors.

During last several years we were equipping libraries with computers, library management software and training librarians. Presently we digitized more than 150 rural libraries. It was done partly by the ISOC grants and partly by local donors. We are also installing WiFi access points in the libraries having Internet connection. We noticed that in libraries with WiFi Internet access there was a big increase in the number of visitors. It was because Internet-hungry young people are always looking for a place where they can connect to the Internet with their tablets and mobiles.

There is another aspect of that phenomenon. Recent research of the World Bank showed that there are digital inequalities between rural and urban areas because of income inequalities. Today, half of the global population remains offline. Most of those offline are from low-income families. Families in rural areas of Armenia with monthly income less than $200 can't afford themselves to have a broadband Internet for $12/month. This kind of problem should be somehow addressed. Everything possible should be done to bring affordable broadband connectivity to rural population.

We found that rural libraries can become community network nodes and facilitate the problem of Internet access in rural regions. Our experience brought us to the main goal of our further actions, i.e., setup digitized Internet-connected rural libraries with WiFi access points for library visitors as community network nodes. In villages where people can't have Internet at homes this possibility is invaluable and helps people to have Internet access.

In general, COVID-19 highlighted the inequalities within countries, and the urgency of achieving the goal of universal access to broadband connectivity.

Trying to help in achieving the goal of universal access to broadband connectivity we started negotiations with leading Armenian Internet providers asking them to set discounted prices of broadband Internet connection for rural libraries.

According to our Chapterthon 2021 plan we installed:

- 2 computers and WiFi access point in the Gyumri city central library
- 4 computers in the Gyumri city central library branches.
- 3 computers and WiFi access point in the Martuni cultural center
- 1 computer in the Dilijan city library
- 1 computer and WiFi access point in the VayotsDzor library.
- 1 computer in the Hrazdan city library.

13 more WiFi access points are on the way to regions for the following rural libraries in addition to the aforementioned:

- Gavar

- Gavar, Hatsarat district
- Gavar, Artsvakar district
- Gandzak
- Sarukhan
- Lanjaghbyur
- Gegharkunik
- Karmirgyugh
- Chambarak
- Abovyan
- Bakunts
- Lernadzor
- Geghi

In total, 12 computers and 15 WiFi access points were installed.

We also presented the list of rural libraries for broadband Internet connection to one of the leading Armenian operator providing Internet services.
